

Nero and the Great Fire of Rome

A LIVE EMPERORS OF ROME PODCAST

Presented by Dr Caillan Davenport (ANU)
and Mr Matt Smith (LaTrobe University)

On the night of 18 July, 64 CE, a fire broke out in the Circus Maximus at Rome. The conflagration raged for nine days, destroying or damaging ten of the city's fourteen regions.

Was the fire just a terrible accident? Or was it deliberately lit, either by dissident Christians or by the emperor Nero, who allegedly sang while Rome burned?

In this live recording of the award-winning Emperors of Rome podcast, Caillan Davenport and Matt Smith explore one of history's most famous whodunits.
